National Employee Benefits Day

In 2004, the International Foundation of Employee Benefits Plans created National Employee Benefits Day.

During this COVID-19 pandemic, employee benefits professionals are leaders who daily address novel employee benefit needs, and adapt to rapidly evolving rules. In this time, we believe it is more important than ever to recognize your dedication to service in the employee benefits industry and to let you know Haynes Benefits appreciates the opportunity to be of service to you.

The attorneys at Haynes Benefits have a strong background in employee benefits and human resources law, as well as a strong understanding of the benefits industry and economics. We get it. We are prepared for whatever comes next.
